Good evening,

In light of this flurry of Plaintiff’s desperate attempts to clear our building out - I’ll take your statement at face value and assume that you are extremely sensitive to noise, or have been coerced to some effect. I am not sure what your line of work entails, however I ensure you I have better things to do than incite or thwart your day to day affairs. Quite frankly, I understand and respect the fact that you are working man (assume in construction?) and apologize if I upset you – my bed is a complicated story (the movers broke the frame and I had to rebuild it) – K?

With that said, there is no need for you to yell down or call me an asshole. I understand you are in situation of undue stress, however is not my intent by any means to further encumber you in this department – I don’t even know you. For that matter, if you need anything, or if you feel that “building a bed” or “music” is untimely with consideration to your schedule - you are more than welcome to come downstairs, call me, or shoot me an email.

I live under the same constraints as yourself, however I am not an aggressive or violent person to any degree. Just grow up already, I should have been the first person you reached out to... This is no way to deal with people or a situation in light of the circumstances.

I’m not here to judge – but the first one in to protect the people I know and particularly those who are in my good graces. If you need something or have any concerns please feel free to contact me directly at 917-378-3467.

Respectfully,

Bo Dincer
